Expert Reviews:

Edmunds.com: With solid on-road dynamics, decent fuel efficiency and an accommodating, high-class cabin, the 2012 Ford Explorer is a top pick for a large crossover SUV.

newCarTestDrive.com: Explorer's chassis is super rigid, using twice as much high-strength steel as the old. That makes for not only great crash-test scores, but also a quiet cabin, excellent ride quality and solid handling that belies the Explorer's considerable size.

KBB.com: Match that with a bounty of standard computer-controlled handling aids, impressively weighted electrically-booster power steering and more than capable anti-lock disc brakes, and the Explorer turns in a world-class open-road experience.

CarAndDriver.com: Nearly minivan levels of interior volume, elegant exterior, modern interior, good fit and finish, smooth ride, quiet demeanor.
